Message from CEO

Calastone is a key service provider to the financial industry. For more than ten years we have driven the digital transformation of the funds industry. Our mission has always been to reduce complexity and drive out risk and cost for all participants. These risks and costs are no longer solely monetary. Environmental, Social and Governance factors are key to Calastone, our employees, our suppliers and our clients. To help us maintain a high standard on these crucial items, we rely on all of our stakeholders to play their part. Employees contribute by channelling their efforts through our core values (Connected, Supportive, Creative and Driven) and by following our Employee Code of Conduct. Our clients adhere to strict regulations set by authorities and are consistently scrutinised by multiple groups.

Our suppliers and supply chain are equally important in allowing us to maintain standards. The trust and relationships built since our inception are crucial to our ability to provide reliable service to our clients. In this light, we are pleased to present our Supplier Code of Conduct. Our Code of Conduct will clearly outline our expectations for Supplier Conduct regarding integrity, data security, labour and human rights, health and safety and environmental responsibility.

This code of conduct also extends to affiliates and subsidiaries of our Suppliers, ensuring maximal transparency.

Julien Hammerson
CEO, Calastone

Compliance

This Code of Conduct (“Code”) applies to Calastone Suppliers and their subsidiaries, affiliates, and subcontractors (referred as ‘Supplier’ below) providing goods or services to Calastone. Each Supplier is expected to ensure that it respects the principles laid down in this Code, as well as setting similar standards for their own agents and sub-contractors to comply with.

The expectations set forth in the Code are in addition to, and are not intended to conflict with any laws or regulations Suppliers have to comply with, or modify the terms and conditions of Supplier’s contract(s) with Calastone. If a legal, regulatory or contractual requirement is more restrictive than the Code, Suppliers must comply with the more restrictive requirement.

Adherence to this Code is an integral part of a Suppliers business relationship with Calastone.

In order for Calastone to ensure its Suppliers comply with the principles set out in this Code, we expect Suppliers to:

- upon request, provide us with all relevant information in respect of Supplier’s compliance with this Code (through completion of self-assessment questionnaires, provision of internal / external audit reports or certifications, or by allowing Calastone to audit the Supplier in person)
- cooperate with Calastone in order to improve operations and processes in a timely manner to reach appropriate level of compliance with this Code

- inform Calastone of any obstacles in the application of this Code

Should a Supplier fail to comply with the principles set out in this Code, Calastone may require corrective actions. In case of serious failure to comply, Calastone reserves the right to reconsider its relationship with the Supplier.

Any of Supplier's employees required to work within Calastone premises will be expected to comply with local policies and procedures issued at the time.

Material Items

We require that all supplier employees and contractors shall be provided with written and understandable information about their employment conditions in respect to wages before they enter employment and about the particulars of their wages for the pay period concerned. Deductions from wages as a disciplinary measure shall not be permitted nor shall any deductions from wages not provided for by national law be permitted without the express and informed permission of the employee concerned. Modern slavery takes various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking, all of which have in common the deprivation of a person's liberty to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.
